VIEW OF UTICA FROM THE HOTEL SEPTEMBER 1807.
Water-color drawing. Size: 12.4 x 6.2. Date depicted: September, 1807. Artist: Baroness Hyde de Neuville. Provenance: One of a collection of thirty-four drawings (thirty being of American subjects), found in Paris by Mr. Stokes, where they had been purchased from the family by E. De Vries in 1928; they were brought to New York and recently dispersed by Kennedy & Company.

Hyde de Neuville, Baroness Original Drawing. 1820 PHILIP STOKES COLLECTION

1820 E-16a The view shows the White House in the center, flanked on the left by the State Department in the foreground and the Treasury Department in the background, and on the right by the War Department in the foreground and the Navy Department in the background. The view was evidently completed in June, 1821, or redrawn from a sketch made during the previous year. Baron Hyde de Neuville and his wife left Washington in May, 1820, for France, and returned in February, 1821, remaining until July, 1822.

BRIDEWELL, AND CHARITY-SCHOOL, BROADWAY, OPPOSITE CHAMBER STREET — FEBRUARY 1808 — Wash drawing. Size: 12.9 x 7.4. Date depicted: February, 1808. Artist: Baroness Hyde de Neuville.
The large building in the center of the view is the Bridewell, built in 1775-76 and demolished in 1838. To the left of it appears the unfinished City Hall, recorded as first occupied in August, 1811. The condition of the City Hall corresponds exactly with the last report contained in McComb's Diary, dated November 25, 1807, where he records: "...the wall"

The steamboat shown in the view is the Raritan, built by Fulton in 1808, and at this time running between New York and New Brunswick. The first steamboat in service between these two places was Colonel John Stevens' Phoenix, which had been put on this run early in the spring of 1809. As soon as Stevens put his boat in service, Fulton and Chancellor Livingston, who claimed a monopoly of steam navigation in the waters around New York, put the Raritan on the same run.
